

SEA PAPER SOUNDS NATURAL.

TRUTHFUL PURSER WIELDS A REGULAR SHORE-GOING "B-E."

But, however, on the ship, bestowed by a Prince of Pilsen, a Prosperous Looking Graybeard on the Promenade Deck—Victims Told About It

Equipped with wireless apparatus that enabled her to keep in touch with the news of the world from midsea to either shore, the Cunard liner, in yesterday's Lancaster and Queenstown, published for the first time a daily newspaper, like those found aboard the Campania and Lucania.
Purser J. A. McCubbin, who is the editor, and has a reputation as an innovator, included a page of gossip of the ship under the heading of "On Board," which made the paper sell like hot cakes. It was his ship that took the "Prince of Pilsen" to England, where her old fellow pliers to crowded houses, and many of them returned with him yesterday; also, the "Prince" himself, John Ransome, about whom the editor thus writes:

"Mr. John Ransome and his fellow merrymakers of the 'Prince of Pilsen' company have enjoyed a very successful season in London. It is difficult to say whether London misses them or they miss London the most."

There was no doubt expressed by the voyage passengers that the Pilsen girls and a good time aboard the ship. One of the handsomest of the lot noted a gallant and portly graybeard lounging on the promenade deck on Friday afternoon, and going up to him, patted him on the cheek and remarked, "You've got a fat, good natured face, I guess I'll kiss you." Thereupon the young woman gave him a hearty smack and then the old fellow blushed like a tomato in September. He told the story to the reporters afterward with a great show of friskiness.

The editor referred to George W. Smalley, who was a passenger, as being "well known to men of light and learning in both countries," and also said that his words affected public opinion and wielded a power that recalled the line of Voltaire: "I have no supper, but I have a Pen."

The Tuesday edition of the paper had this item:
At 6:30 on Sunday evening an interesting event occurred in the second cabin. Mrs.
Richard Middleton gave birth to a son.
The child was named John Middleton. The family to be desired that mother and child be as well as the father. The family to be desired that mother and child be as well as the father. The family to be desired that mother and child be as well as the father. The family to be desired that mother and child be as well as the father.

In Friday's paper the editor, at the request of many women subscribers, published this additional news of the birth: Mrs. Richard Middleton and infant are doing well. The child has been named John Richard Middleton. The family to be desired that mother and child be as well as the father. The family to be desired
that mother and child be as well as the father. The family to be desired that

There was an unusual commotion in one of the cages in the monkey house in the Park. Jim, Jocko and Mike were furtiously fighting. Jim began it by sticking his two forefingers and punching them into Mike's solar plexus. Jocko, at the time was eating a peanut on his perch, and seeing Mike roll over on his side gasping for breath, dropped the peanut and jumped to avenge his brother.

"Que-e-que-e-e!" and Jim had nearly lost an arm. It began to look serious.
Jim limped into a corner and nursed his paw. No man ever looked so melancholy.

Supposing he was king of the bunch, Jim was paddling round the cage, when Mike, unexpectedly reviving, made one opportunistic leap and had his assailant by the neck.

"Que-e-que-e-e!" again, and this time Jocko was down with his ear torn off.
"That's just it," said the keeper, "Mike killed him. Just at that instant Jim left his corner and tackled Mike. He wound him round the neck and pulled him down to the floor. Mike's left leg and arm were being making a great effort to twist it completely off. Again there was a squeal.
After a struggle, in the next cage, tried to escape. He was caught by the keeper and sent to the bottom of the cage. He was going on. The keeper was awakened from his afternoon nap and winked blindly about him.

"Those confounded monkeys again," he said to himself. The porcupine ruffed up his quills in disgust. But the humans were enjoying it.

The night became three-handed. The monkeys punched each other; they pinched; they bit themselves into all kinds of mix-ups.
"See! See! The jiu jitsu! The jiu jitsu!" suddenly came from a Jap who had just arrived.

The keepers looked at each other for a moment in wonderment.
"That's just it," said one of them.

West Twenty-third Street.

LIVE TOPICS ABOUT TOWN.

Ten years ago it was difficult to get a meal that was both cheap and clean as well as wholesome, here. Now the twenty-third city restaurants are springing up like mushrooms. New York has been behind San Francisco in that respect. There, although clothing and most other articles are more costly than in the East, good meals can be had at almost every block for 25 cents. New York, however, is fast becoming a paradise of cheap food.

"I lived for a while in the hinterland in the City of Mexico, and a New Yorker. The price was $11 a day and I can get better meals for 15 cents right here in New York than I had there. I used to buy a glass of beer and fill out my meal at the free lunch counter. We had only halls and gold spoons and everything else—but food!"

The running of the trains in the subway can be heard distinctly in some of the basements of the buildings along Elm street.
There is a basement barber shop at Elm and Franklin streets. "Big Tom" Foley was dozing in one of the chairs yesterday morning when a train rumbled beneath.
Foley jumped up in a hurry.
"That's that, Henry?" he asked the barber.
"Nuttins," replied the German barber, "dot is elevated train in der ground, dot's all."

It's the West for real eloquence. One Methodist pastor from that section was preaching here a Sunday or two ago on the eternity of the soul. He started on a long recital of his emotions while gazing on the wonders of nature in the Far West, and presently he electrified his congregation.

Looked at the mountains, and could not help thinking "Beautiful as you are, you will be destroyed, while my soul will not." And to the crowd he cried: "Mighty as you may be, you will dry up, but not I."

Stray cats are as common in the country at this time of the season, when the city folks have shut up their cottages, as the same strays are about the backyards in town after folks have departed for the country in the spring. One woman who stays the year around at a popular resort on Long Island, strayed into her window one afternoon early last winter and it comforted her to know that they all looked sleek and fat.

The abandoned cat of the country may forage in barns, fields and woods, and fare better than the feline outcasts of the backyards. Such cats do not heed the call of wild, and they hunt the mice and rats of the settlements and therefore, unless they find new homes, few live through the winter.

A remarkable sight attracted the attention of the crowds on their way to the Thirty-fourth street fair yesterday. A large automobile came along Second avenue dragging a truck. On the end of the truck a boy sat leading two horses. It wasn't an advertising dodge—merely a coincidence in the life of a busy city.

The growth in size of the trucks and express wagons has been proportionate to the growth of buildings. The tendency of the express companies especially has been to build larger wagons constantly.
The latest development is an express wagon which is an exact duplicate of the moving van. The advent of electricity in the streets as a motive power has made it possible to increase the size of vehicles enormously.

With so many narrow streets the subject has become a serious one. It seems probable that regulations will soon have to be passed limiting the size of vehicles. In fact, Police Commissioner McAdoo has already seriously proposed that this be done.

A new kind of automaton appeared on Broadway yesterday, apparently dragging a wagon, but in reality propelled by it.
The automaton was the counterfeit presentment of a man about 85, feet tall and correspondingly proportioned. He was well clothed, booted and hatted, and the movements of his legs and feet were almost lifelike. So close was the resemblance to a man that even frisky horses, after a glance, passed on unafraid.

The machinery operating the man is worked by the electric motor of the wagon.
The engineer sits in the rear of the wagon, and the automaton and wagon. An advertisement, of course, for a melodrama playing not far from Broadway.

The manager of the big department store signed as he handed a letter to his typewriter to be filed away.
"Women always seem to think," he said, "that they must get some sort of influence brought to bear before they can get employment in a store. As a matter of fact, good saleswomen are always in demand and we are always willing to receive and develop them. The color of the peaches and cherries, and then acquiring the softer glow of the peaches, constantly changed in beauty of tint. The color of the peaches for their reason is longer. Next to them in their decorative effectiveness are the grapes, which were never more beautiful or abundant than they are this year."

For six months of the year New York theaters nowadays and a genuine run of a hundred nights for any play is rare.
"Managers now are glad to get a good six or eight weeks out of a play," one of them said yesterday. He counts that a success. Yet three months was not unusual for a real success a decade ago. The usual run has increased so greatly in number that public patronage has been divided in many different directions. Consequently every play has less of a run than it used to have, even when it can be accounted a great success."

The sale of the Whitney stud at Madison Square Garden on Monday is likely to attract as many fashionable folks as did the disposal of the Exhall Krome hunters and hounds the other day. The Long Island contingent will be on hand, with but few absentees.

Cards for the marriage of Miss Edna Schuyler and Charles Whyland Osborn will soon be sent out by the parents of the bride-elect, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Grinnell Schuyler of 174 West Seventy-sixth street.
The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. Dr. Ernest Stries, on Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 22, at 4 o'clock, in St. Thomas Church. Mrs. William P. Whyland will attend the bride as matron of honor, and Miss Mabel Clyde and Miss Ethel Peersall of Brooklyn will be bridesmaids. Mrs.
Osborn, who is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Osborn of this city and Belpoit, L. I., will be assisted by Arthur Stratford as best man. He will have several ushers, including William P. Whyland, Howard Harrington and Howell Weaver. He will give his bachelor dinner at Delmonico's a few nights before the event.

Tristram Roberts Coffin, son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Coffin of 517 Madison avenue, gave his bachelor dinner last night at Delmonico's. He had as guests: J.
R. Coffin and R. R. Coffin, his brothers; C. F. Coffin, his cousin; Dr. C. F. Coffin, Frederick Brower and A. Holmes, Jr., who are to attend him as best man and ushers at his wedding with Miss Marion Houghton Richards on Saturday, Oct. 22.

The New York guests of the Coffin-Richards wedding will go by train leaving the Grand Central station at 4 A. M. on Oct.
22 for North Andover, Mass., where the wedding will be celebrated at Hillcrest, the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Richards. The bride will be attended by Miss Cordelia as maid of honor. After their honeymoon the couple will live here at the Patterson, 35 West Forty-seventh street.

A New York couple, Miss Helen E. Benedict and Archibald Alexander Forrest, are to be married on Tuesday in London, at St. George's Church, Hanover Square. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Harper Benedict. Mr. Benedict is president of the Remington Typewriter Company. Only relatives and some intimate friends have been invited.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Ambrose Clark sail next Friday for England, for some hunting in Leicestershire. Mrs. Clark is, like her husband, a great rider. In the summer they have a country cottage on Clinton avenue, Saratoga. Mr. Clark was one of the riders with the Meadow Brook Hunt at its first hunt of the season on Thursday.

The Pilgrims of the United States will give a dinner on Thursday night at the Waldorf-Astoria to the Archbishop of Canterbury. The committee comprises Sir Henry Jackson, Bishop Potter, Joseph Wheeler, Richard Watson, Glider, Joseph J. Jepp, Cornelius N. Bliss, W. Butler Don-can, James Speyer, George T. Wilson, August Belmont, Jacob H. Schiff and Herbert Noble.

After a little wedding journey, Mr. and Mrs. Gustav Amsinck, married at Geneva, Switzerland, on Oct. 1, will return to New York. Both have been abroad for the summer. Mrs. Amsinck inherited a fortune from her father, the late Isaac C. Dolanplaine, of the old New York family, and from her former husband, the late James H. Dolan. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Schiedel, who is the only relative present at the ceremony.

Mrs. Cadwalader Jones and her daughter, Miss Beatrix Jones, are due to arrive from Europe to-morrow. They rented their cottage at Bar Harbor for the season. Mr. and Mrs. Luther Kounze are expected home from Europe next Wednesday. Their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs.
De Lancey Kounze, have been at their country place, Florham Park, Morris-town, since their return from their wedding journey. Miss Eleanor Russell, who arrived on Friday from abroad, will join her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Russell of 47 Park avenue, who are still at their South ampton cottage. Mr. and Mrs. Matthew B.
Dubois and Miss Ethel Dubois of 285 Madison avenue, are expected home next Saturday, after a summer abroad.

William T. Aldrich, son of Senator Aldrich, will sail for Paris to-morrow, to resume his studies in L'Ecole des Beaux Arts. He came over to attend the wedding of a brother at St. Louis in June. His brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. John D.
Rockefeller, Jr., drove last week from Lenox to Albany and down the river to their country home in the Pocantico Hills.

The only New York ushers who will assist Marcus Hopkins of Boston at his wedding on Tuesday with Miss Gladys Crosby will be Joseph O. Willis and Reginald Pierce.
The ceremony will be performed in St.
Stephen's Church, Colorado Springs, where the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Floyd Crosby, have resided since their marriage.

Cards are here for the marriage on Tuesday of Miss Dorothy Bunker, daughter of Mrs. George Bunker, and S. Roger Mitchell of this city, at St. George's Church, Flushing, L. I. The bridegroom will be attended by his brother, Ewan H. Mitchell of the Royal Corps of Naval Constructors, who came over from England for the occasion.

Owing to the illness of Mrs. Anson W.
Hard, the wedding of her youngest daughter, Miss Nellie Wales Hard, and John Kane Mills, next Saturday, Oct. 15, will be quietly celebrated. The ceremony will be performed at the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Hard at Lawrence, L. I. The bride's only attendant will be Miss Mary Park of Westbury. Mr. Mills will be assisted by Thomas Blagden as best man. The bridegroom is the second son of Mrs. Lawrence Mills of Lawrence, L. I. Mr. and Mrs.

Hard will come to town soon after the wedding and will live at 14 East Seventh street, the tailor residence, which they have taken for the season.

On Wednesday James J. Van Allen will close his Newport establishment and go to Hot Springs, Va., for a time. Probably he will be in town soon after the coming nuptial event and will live at 14 East Seventh street, the tailor residence,
which they have taken for the season.

Miss Grace Kimball Ballard, who wedding with Philip Bernard Phillips, Oct. 26, place on Wednesday afternoon, Oct. 26, at 4 o'clock, at the church of the Heavenly Rest, will give her bridesmaids' luncheon on Saturday, Oct. 22, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederic C. Ballard.
The bride will be attended by Miss Helen G. Ballard, her sister, as maid of honor, and the Misses Spadone and Josephine Kelly of this city, Margaret Weissinger of Louisville, Ky., and Marion de Wolfe Tracy of Oswego N. Y., will be bridesmaids.

Eugene Higgins will start on his annual trip to Europe on his steam yacht Varuna within a few days. He will have with him, as usual, several guests.

To go to California for the winter is the latest decision of Mr. and Mrs. Reinhart Bachopon von Echt, who were married late in the season at Newport. They did the world's fair and travelled about while on their honeymoon, and are now visiting Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pizer, Mrs. von Echt's parents.

There is a talk now that the wedding cards of Miss Lulu Pizer and Viscount Newry, son of the Earl of Kilmorey, may be shortly issued and that the event will be celebrated here. Miss Pizer is the daughter of Charles Pizer, Jr.'s first wife. She is not related to Miss Reinhart Bachopon von Echt, née Pizer, but simply took the name when her mother remarried.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. De Forest will, after their wedding journey, locate at Colorado Springs. The bride's guests of the wedding of the couple, celebrated Thursday at St.
Hubert's in the Adirondacks, reached here on Friday. The reception was given at the clubhouse. Mr. De Forest is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. De Forest of this city, and a grandson of the late John Taylor Johnston.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. Thomas, who are at the St. Regis Hotel until the painting and decorating of their home, 17 West Fifty-seventh street, is completed, were the guests at the tennis club, Tuxedo, on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter D. Martin, who will winter abroad, will pass all of his week at the St. Louis fair. Miss Rosemary Barcia, niece of Gen. Grant of Governors Island, is now doing the exposition. Mr. and Mrs.
Edward N. Teller, who are in St. Louis, will return in November and reopen their home in North Washington Square. Mr. and Mrs. Edwin H. Weatherbee and family will be at St. Louis this week and next.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Emile Roosevelt have not yet returned to their town house, 804 Fifth avenue. Their daughter, Miss Christine Kean Roosevelt, will be one of the bridesmaids at the wedding of Miss Elizabeth Van Cortlandt and Robert Lyman Van Cortlandt, set for Oct. 26, at Epiphany Church, Washington. Her cousin, Miss Elfreda Parker of Boston, will also attend.
The bride's father, has been stationed during the summer at St. Louis, and his family have been there with him.

James H. Hyde is one of the rich bachelors who will do some entertaining during the autumn at his Long Island place. He is very apt to be a guest of the week end parties of Mr. and Mrs. George J. Gould at Georgian Court, Lakewood.

It is said now that Miss Irene Sherman, the sister of the two daughters of Mr.
Mrs. W. Watts Sherman of 335 Fifth avenue, will not be a debutante of this winter as anticipated, as the family may go abroad again as they did last season.
